Nurse Practitioner Accreditation Committee Vacancy

ANMAC is currently seeking:

- two nurse practitioner academics with current registration and experience in curriculum development for nurse practitioner programs

Are you interested in

- playing a key role in the work of the Nurse Practitioner Accreditation Committee (NPAC)
- reviewing the outcomes of accreditation assessments undertaken by ANMAC assessment teams in relation to determining whether programs of study for nurse practitioners seeking to practise in Australia meet the Nurse Practitioner Accreditation Standards

The Australian Nursing and Midwifery Accreditation Council (ANMAC) helps protect the health and safety of the community by promoting high quality standards for nursing and midwifery program accreditation. ANMAC is responsible for facilitating the development of content for accreditation standards in consultation with our stakeholders and representatives from the professions. ANMAC is also responsible for determining whether programs of study for nurses and midwives seeking to practise in Australia meet the required accreditation standards.

The Nurse Practitioner Accreditation Committee is currently looking for two committee members. New members will be provided with induction, support and training.

How to apply

Please outline your reasons for applying including your relevant experience in no more than 500 words. Please attach your resume. If you have applied for a NPAC position in the previous six months, we will have your application currently on file, if you are still interested in a position please notify us by email.
